Dr Sky Chew

MBBS BMedSc MMed FRANZCO

Dr Sky Chew is an Australian-trained vitreoretinal and cataract surgeon who has completed four subspecialty fellowships in ophthalmology. He offers medical and surgical care for retinal conditions, including retinal detachment, macular degeneration and diabetic eye disease. Dr Chew also treats cataracts, dislocated intraocular lenses and general eye conditions.

In addition to English, Dr Chew speaks conversational Bahasa, Mandarin and Hokkien.

As a vitreoretinal surgeon, Dr Chew also offers macular hole repair, removal of macular or epiretinal membranes, surgery for floaters or bleeds within the eye and treatment for retinal vascular disorders.

Additionally, Dr Chew performs sutureless cataract surgery and provides a wide range of intraocular lens options, including extended depth-of-focus (EDOF), toric and multifocal lenses. He also offers sutured secondary intraocular lenses, including sutured toric lenses for high astigmatism.

BACKGROUND

Dr Chew completed his undergraduate medical degree at The University of Melbourne, followed by a Masters in Ophthalmic Science at the University of Sydney. After undertaking foundational ophthalmology training at the Royal Victorian Eye and Ear Hospital, Dr Chew completed subspecialty training in medical retina and uveitis, paediatric ophthalmology and a further two fellowships in vitreoretinal surgery. Through this additional training, he has gained invaluable experience providing comprehensive care across a broad spectrum of eye conditions.

Dr Chew is committed to advancing the quality of eye care and is actively involved in ophthalmology research. He also believes in the importance of patient education and encourages his patients to ask questions so they can be better informed about their care and management options.
